

5 St Swithin's Ashmanhaugh

Parts of this round towered church are medieval, for example the carved pew ends known as poppy-heads.

4 Wroxham Barns

Shops, crafts, cafe, craft exhibitions and demonstrations, children's play area. Toilets. Entrance fee to children's farm.

3 Hoveton/Wroxham

This once tiny village has grown, mostly as a result of tourism. There are shops, cafes, pubs and a Broads information centre. For the steam rail enthusiasts, the Bure Valley Railway is just beyond the rail bridge on the right. Visit the Riverside Park on the right near the Broads information centre.

2 Hoveton Hall Gardens

Beautiful woodlands and walled gardens, including woodland and lakeside walks.

6 St Michael's & All Angels Church

Although this medieval church is kept locked, the outside is interesting too. Look for the lychgate - where coffins waited before being summoned into the church.

7 Barton Turf

The village sign features a wherry - a traditional sailing cargo boat. The staithe has views of the river and a short walk, through part of the nature reserve, to some moorings. From the moorings you look across to the Heater. This floating island is so called due to its shape - like an old heating iron!

8 Solar Boat

Ra - trips available around Barton Broad.

9 Barton Broad

The second largest broad and site of the Broads Authority's millennium project which has restored the water quality and landscape of the broad. Car park and toilets in Long Road. On the boardwalk you will be able to go right into the mysterious floating forest of Herons' Carr and have good views over Barton Broad. Lock your bikes up at the entrance.

10 Irstead Church and Irstead Shoals Staithe

The church has one of the oldest rood screens in Norfolk. From the staithe enjoy views of the River Ant and Shoals Dyke. Return a little way back up the road to enjoy views south across Hall Marshes. To help maintain the wetland habitat, Broads Authority conservation teams have been clearing invading scrub from the area. This will help to protect the rich variety of plants and animals which like the wet conditions here.

11 RAF Air Defence Radar Museum

Varied displays showing the history and development of the radar.

12 Horning

A traditional Broads village. The people who lived here used to make their living from river trade and the products of the fens and marshes. Stop here for shops and river views.

13 Cockshoot Broad and nature trail

A ferry is sometimes available to visit Cockshoot Broad nature trail across the River Bure. For details contact Broads information centre (Hoveton) 01603 756097
